Miss T. E. Osborne is the name of a young lady living at 128 North Seventeenth Street, Richmond, Ind. She is the daughter of Mr. William Osborne, one of the most prominent horsemen in Eastern Indiana.

She told your reporter a most interesting and remarkable story. It will interest physicians as it was a most unusual case, and to the various ones who treated her, diagnosed it differently.

"None of the doctors, and I tried all of them," said Miss Osborne, "knew what was the matter with me. Some said I had rheumatism, while others frankly admitted that they did not know. I was at first taken with pneumonia. One of my feet pained me almost constantly, then the doctors pronounced it rheumatism.

"Gradually, but steadily, the trouble grew and spread until my entire body was involved and I was utterly helpless. Then we changed doctors. No relief came, and we changed doctors. No relief came, and we changed again. We tried hearly all of the load physicians, and I was taken away to the baths. Nothing did me any apparent good, and I suffered very much.

Grover Pinney, a small boy living near Bosworth, pulled a cider press over on himself and split his tongue. Fortunately for that community Grover is not a girl. Tem Donovan, one of a gang of men engaged in laying steel rails on the Santa Fe railway, while under the influence of liquor on Tuesday night of last week was struck by a Wabash train at Norborne and received injuries from which he died a few hours afterward. Donovan was a stranger at Norborne and nothing is known of his antecedente.

Sig. Kaufman, a shoe merchant at Fayette, shot at a burglar the other night while trying to gain access to his store through a rear window. Mr. Kaufman's establishment has been burglarized of about $50 worth of tootwear during the past five months, so the shoe vender concluded to stand guard. The burglar came, and Kaufman shot at him, but as no trace of blood could be found along the midnight prowler's trail it is naturally supposed that he was not hit.

Electric Bittess

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps atal bilious fever. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at W. C. Gaston's Drag Store.

This story is told on a brakeman on a certain road coming to Atlanta: He discovered a namp asleep in a box car, and entering the car, ordered him out. The tramp slowly taised his head, and in a weak voice said: "My friend, I am dying with tellow fever. For God's sake, let me die in peace!" The brakeman jumped twenty feet in getting out of the car, but he shouted to the sick man as the freight moved off: "Don't tel 'em that I saw you!"
